—[LET'S START]—

Think of the married couples you have known. Is there one where it all seemed to come together exceptionally well? What have you observed (or think) was their secret?

—[LET'S TALK]—

1. In Solomon's day it was up to the groom-to-be to do much of the preparation for the wedding event. Once the projects were completed, the father gave approval for the groom to get his bride. Discuss as a group how this has changed in today's world.
2. When you adore someone, you focus on their outward appearance. When you admire someone, the focus is on their internal qualities that make them really amazing. What could you say to your spouse (or spouse-to-be) that would be an adoring compliment? What would be an admiring compliment?
3. What are some practical ways you can bless your spouse (or your intended spouse), siblings, friends, etc.?
